The Power of Play:
Using Theraplay® to Connect with Children

Research and practice have demonstrated the importance of play in child development. Play is also a means for children to connect with peers and caregivers. Theraplay® is a child and family therapy for building and enhancing attachment, self-esteem, trust in others, and joyful engagement. It is based on the natural patterns of playful, healthy interaction between parent and child and is personal, physical, and fun. Theraplay can be adapted for many different settings and populations.
